Think of an animal that you would like to research.
Using the same format as our book, create a page that could be added. Be sure to include accurate information and text features just like the author did.

You will choose one of our non-fiction animals.

After you have read your book, you will make a poster including pictures and some text to share important facts about your animal. You can draw your ideas below before you make your real poster.

The animal you have chosen is being sent to the San Diego Zoo. It is your job to design the kind of enclosure this animal needs. You will also have to figure out the kind of habitat that must be created, the kind of food that it will need to be fed, etc. Design the enclosure and then write about other important information the zookeeper will need to know.

There is a new animal arriving at the zoo. It is your job to create the informational sign that is outside the cage. Be sure to include important information and interesting facts about this animal. Plan what needs to be included on the sign on the lines below. Then you will create your sign.

The second secon